PRICE SEVEN CENTS

TRADE PACT
EXTENSION IS APPROVED

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders predicted today that the reciprocal trade extension bill will emerge from conference with the House in a form satisfactory to President Eisenhower.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), who will head the Senate conferees, told a reporter, "I am sure we will work out a bill that will be fully acceptable to the President."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said the conferees might come up with the full five-year extension asked by the President. If not, he said they surely will agree on four.

The Senate Tuesday night passed a three-year extension measure 72-16 after five days of debate.

The body rolled up a smashing 63-27 bipartisan vote to give Eisenhower a major victory in his fight to retain his power to override Tariff Commission recommendations for quotas and higher tariffs.

But the leaders on both sides who cooperated to achieve this did not call for any other floor tests on provisions put into the bill by the Senate Finance Committee over administration opposition.

They preferred instead to iron these out in conference. The House passed the measure 317-98 last month in a form which met all Eisenhower's specifications.

Under present law, the President can and sometimes does override a Tariff Commission recommendation for relief to an industry claiming damage from foreign imports.

But under the provision the Senate rejected, his decision against such a recommendation would not have prevailed unless a majority of both branches of Congress passed a resolution backing him.

The Senate action meant a return to present law. But the House put in its bill a provision allowing Congress to reverse the President in such a case by a two-thirds vote of each branch, and this may be restored in conference. It is acceptable to Eisenhower.

Fifteen Beauties
Compete in Miss
Universe Contest

By DIAL TORGERSON

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Fifteen beauties—almost half of them Southerners—carry United States' hopes forward today toward the finals of the Miss Universe contest.

The U.S. contingent was cut one third Tuesday night when the judges took their first look at the entries in this year's beauty pageant.

The girls from Dixie took seven semifinal spots, with the judges' nod going to representatives of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

The others picked were from California, Montana, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Illinois, Nebraska and New York.

Some of those who lost out took it so hard their chaperones cried too.

But blonde, statuesque Miss New Hampshire didn't take it that way. Patricia Larrabee, 19, Salem told a reporter: "I'm relieved. Now that the tension is all gone, I can enjoy myself."

Tonight the 15 will be narrowed to 5 and the 5 to — Miss U. S. A.

Scholarship to Penn State

Melvin Smith, of Conewango avenue, evidently finds his task a pleasant one as he presents Mrs. Kenneth Corey, of Clarendon, a check. Mrs. Corey, teacher of the Warren County Special Training Class at South Street school has been awarded a scholarship by the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children, and she will attend workshops on "Education of the Mentally Retarded" conducted by Pennsylvania State University. Mr. Smith is treasurer of the Warren County Association for Retarded Children. Timesphoto by Sparky.

Mrs. Kenneth Corey, who was awarded a Penn State scholarship, is presently attending workshop sessions, and is expected at her home in Clarendon on Sunday.

Receiving the honor is nothing new to her, for this is the second P.A.R.C. scholarship she has been given in recognition of the outstanding work she is doing with severely retarded children. She has been very successful in seeking out and developing the abilities of each child.

Son of Senator
Is One of Four
Victims of Crash

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Grief-stricken Sen. John McClellan came home to Arkansas today to await the burial of his youngest son, victim of a plane crash that killed three other men.

McClellan made another sorrowful journey from Washington nine years ago. He came then for the funeral of a soldier son who died overseas and his second son died of auto wreck injuries on the day of the funeral.

James Howard McClellan, 30, who was killed in the crash near Little Rock Tuesday, was the 62-year-old senator's third and only remaining son.

The Arkansas Democrat received the news of the fatal crash just after he had been in the Senate chamber voting on an amendment to the Reciprocal Trade Act bill.

The younger McClellan, a Little Rock attorney, was at the controls of a twin-engine plane owned by a Little Rock flying service. A flier since his Air Force service in the Korean War, he was taking a test for a twin-engine pilot's license.

Killed with McClellan were instructors Wallace Denman Hill, 57, and Jesse Ralph Williams, 32, both of Little Rock, and Harold K. Gilbert, 33, Stuttgart, Ark., who planned to take his pilot's examination after McClellan.

Letter No. 1

Dear Friends:

On June 23 at 5:30 a. m. we twelve members of the group boarded for Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, sailed from Montreal on Arosa Kulm, along with 755 other young men and women headed for such countries as France, England, Germany, Austria, Norway, Sweden, Finland and India. Though all of us are from different parts of the country, different schools, and different backgrounds, we felt a certain unity among ourselves as we were all taking part in the Experiment in International Living. We are all trying to further peace and understanding among nations through living together and personal friendship.

In our group of 12 we find that there are four community ambassadors, two scholarship winners and six people paying their own way. I am one of the youngest members of our group (18) whose ages vary from 18 to 28. It is interesting to note every member has at least one year of college behind him or her. We have six college graduates and 13 different schools. (Turn to Page Twelve)

Increase Noted in June Living Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today reported living costs rose in June by less than one-tenth of 1 percent to another record. But the tiny increase held a promise of a decline later.

The decline may come in the summer or early fall.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said its index rose to 123.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This means it costs about 24 cents more to buy what could be purchased for a dollar a decade ago.

The June living cost level was 2.9 per cent higher than the same month last year. It was the 20th time the official index has risen to new records in the past 22 months. There has been no decline since August 1956.

Belle and Ostwind
Claim Innocence
In FBI Charges

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh financier Earl Belle and associate Mitchell D. Ostwind say they are innocent of charges filed by the FBI that they fraudulently converted $62,500.

Contacted in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, neither 26-year-old Belle nor Ostwind would comment on their plans.

Ostwind said he thought he was being crucified. He did not elaborate.

"I don't know how any charges could be made," Belle said. "Any checks I signed, any money I drew was all done properly."

Asked if he would return to face the charges, Belle said, "I will answer all charges. That's all I will say on this subject."

In Washington, the Justice Department said a copy of the charges would be turned over to the State Department with a request that it determine what could be done about extraditing the two back to the United States.

According to the Justice Department, this country does not have a formal extradition treaty with Brazil, thus each case of this kind is dealt with individually.

Justice Department officials said they planned "to do everything possible to get them back." The FBI filed the charges Tuesday, claiming the money involved was in the form of five $12,500 checks drawn on the Manufacturers Bank of Edgewater, N.J. (Turn to Page Twelve)

NABLUS, Jordan (AP)—Gamal Abdel Nasser proclaimed himself a man of peace Tuesday — and virtually called for the assassination of King Hussein of Jordan.

It is the first time Nasser personally has suggested assassination for the Jordanian King, although his "Voice of the Arabs" propaganda radio station has done so often.

The President of the United Arab Republic, in his annual Egyptian Independence Day speech, called expressly on the people of Jerusalem, Nablus and Ramallah — the main Palestinian towns in Jordan — to heed his words.

Nasser pointedly referred to the late King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, and to the year 1951 in which Abdullah was assassinated by Arab Palestinians. He accused Hussein of following in his grandfather's footsteps by calling on Britain for aid.

Lebanon Forces
Have Orders Not
To Start Shooting

WASHINGTON (AP)—American forces stationed in Lebanon have been given strict orders not to fire except in their own defense.

A Pentagon spokesman explained that a case of mistaken identity caused a brief exchange of shots with Lebanese police in the area of Beirut airport.

No one was hurt in the exchange, the spokesman said, and the firing ceased as soon as the Lebanese officers and U. S. Marines recognized each other.

Snipers had been firing intermittently at American aircraft from the airport vicinity for several days prior to the incident.

The United States, which now has some 8,300 men in Lebanon, plans to send in 700 additional service troops, including engineers, medical and dental personnel and other auxiliary types.

The Military Sea Transportation Service announced it was adding 28 vessels, including one troop transport, to its fleet to meet possible needs for Middle East movements.

Meantime, the Navy ordered 6,000 Marines who have been loading for several days at East Coast ports to undertake amphibious training in the Atlantic between the Virginia Capes and Puerto Rico.

Travelers Bring Report
Of Trouble in Sudan

CAIRO (AP)—Western travelers arriving today from Khartoum said an Iraqi-type pro-Nasser coup was attempted in Sudan in the last few days. It apparently was nipped by the Sudanese authorities.

Sudan is on Egypt's southern border. Details of the attempt could not be learned.

Egypt's government-controlled Middle East News Agency reported in a Khartoum dispatch Tuesday the commander of the Sudanese army had ordered all officers to remain at their posts.

On July 19, the United Arab Republic's Foreign Ministry disclosed the Sudan government had ordered the ouster of the U.A.R. Embassy counselor in Khartoum, Aly Khashaba, alleging he had engaged in suspicious activities.

Yankees May Move Out of Lebanon Minus Any Fighting
American Commander Says

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Adm. James L. Holloway said today "I really think we can get out of Lebanon without any fighting."

He added he doubts that World War III will start here.

The commander of all American forces in Lebanon recorded these statements for radio and television. He appeared along with U. S. Ambassador Robert McClintock.

Both expressed optimism over the outlook, not only in Lebanon but in respect to repercussions elsewhere to the arrival of American forces in this tiny Middle East nation.

Holloway and McClintock were asked their opinion on the possibility that the Lebanese situation might touch off a third World War.

The ambassador replied: "From my own political experience, I would say the danger of a third World War is very much reduced." Holloway concurred.

Holloway also said he sees no indications of the Russians becoming involved in the Lebanese problem. Asked whether he felt similarly about the United Arab Republic, he replied that "it would not appear that President Nasser will mount and launch a formal intervention in Lebanon."

Reporters asked both men about the possibility that American forces might be used to assist Jordan's King Hussein. Holloway did not reply directly but said: "The U. S. Marines and Army have the capacity for quick shifts and movements."

In a formal statement, McClintock said: "We are here to help, and not to take over."

Meanwhile, Speaker Abdel Ousseiran postponed Parliament's election of a new president for one week. This apparently was to gain time in the search for a candidate acceptable to both the government and rebels.

American Legion
Convention Opens
In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The 40th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion opened today with the first of several committee meetings to consider some 50 resolutions presented for membership consideration.

The four-day affair ends Saturday with the installation of officers and the annual parade.

Among those scheduled to address the convention are Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.), Gov. George M. Leader and Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth.

Another highlight of the yearly convention is the drum and bugle competition scheduled for Friday night at the South Philadelphia High School athletic field. The fun-making 40 and 8 unit will hold its parade Thursday night in the downtown area.

Some 5,000 delegates and alternates are on hand from all across the state, many of them accompanied by their wives and families.

Four candidates are in the race to succeed State Commander John W. Collins. They are George F. Bruno of Fountain Hill; Thomas J. Kane and Charles A. Mentzer, both of Philadelphia, and Paul E. Walters of Pine Grove.

Pennsylvania Women

WEIRTON, W. Va. (AP)—Two Pennsylvania women have been killed in an auto crash on Route 22, seven miles west of Weirton.

Mrs. Thompson's husband was hospitalized with head and chest injuries.

ELECTION POSTPONED

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Speaker Adel Ousseiran has postponed for one week Parliament's election of a new president, apparently to give more time to a search for a candidate acceptable to both government and rebels.

The election session was scheduled for Thursday.

SOVIET PAPER REJECTS
PROPOSAL FOR A SUMMIT
MEETING WITHIN COUNCIL

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The next step in the Middle East crisis depends on whether Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev accepts the challenge to a summit meeting in the U. N. Security Council.

Khrushchev today presumably was making up his mind whether to insist on his own plan for a five-power summit meeting apart from the U. N., or agree to the suggestions of President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan for the high-level meeting here.

Moscow dispatches said many diplomats there believed the Soviet leader would accept the Eisenhower-Macmillan suggestion though he might not like the setup.

Hammaraskjold indicated he would ask U. N. members for more men to build up the observer group so they might make it possible for the United States to withdraw its 10,000 troops from Lebanon.

"I shall use all opportunities offered to the secretary general... to help," and develop the group "so as to give it all the significance it can have," he told the Council. "You will forgive me for not being able to spell out, at this moment, what it may mean beyond that."

The 35th Soviet veto defeated a Japanese resolution calling on the U. N. "to make possible the withdrawal of United States forces from Lebanon" by arranging to protect that country's territorial integrity and political independence.

This protection was the purpose Washington announced for landing

Marines in Lebanon July 15, the day after the Iraqi monarchy was overthrown by supporters of President Nasser. Nasser opposes the pro-Western Lebanese government.

The Japanese resolution was interpreted as calling for strengthening of the 135-man observer group which the Council assigned June 11 to insure against intervention in the Lebanese revolt by Nasser's United Arab Republic. All the Council members except the Soviet Union voted for it, and Hammaraskjold then said he would enlarge the group anyway.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge told reporters he thought Hammaraskjold's announcement very helpful. He added that the secretary general's action could bring about conditions under which the United States, after consulting Hammaraskjold and Lebanon, would withdraw its troops.

Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain also said Hammaraskjold's plan should help.

Khrushchev told reporters at a reception in Moscow Tuesday night that the United States and Britain "must show wisdom and understanding of the times and pull their troops out of Lebanon and Jordan." Otherwise they will be crushed by force of Arab nationalism. (Turn to Page Twelve)

This is denied by the White House and former officials of Ray-laine, which is now defunct. The White House said Adams only relayed routine queries.

Col. Joseph A. Avery, a member of the appeals board at present, was the only witness heard in the first two days of closed-door sessions.

UNDATED MIDEAST AT A GLANCE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower reluctant to meet Premier Khrushchev but says United States will attend U. N. Security Council summit meeting on Middle East if that is "generally desired."

MOSCOW—Izvestia, Soviet government organ, opposes summit meeting in Security Council, where it says United States has "mechanical majority," also objects to Nationalist China's attendance. Khrushchev says United States and Britain must pull troops out of Lebanon and Jordan or they'll be crushed by force of Arab nationalism.

LONDON—Prime Minister Macmillan says he's ready for U. N. summit conference but suggests no voting unless all nations agree in advance on resolution.

PARIS—Premier de Gaulle also willing to attend a summit meeting but says U. N. lacks the necessary calm atmosphere. Recommends meeting be held elsewhere.

Moscow Objects Sharply to U. N. Summit Conference But Does Not Close the Door

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow objects sharply today to Western suggestions for a U.N. summit meeting to discuss the Middle East crisis, but stopped short of saying Premier Khrushchev would not accept.

The suggestions were made in varying forms Tuesday in the Western powers' individual replies to Khrushchev's own suggestion for a five-power summit meeting outside the United Nations.

The initial Moscow reaction came in a commentary by the government newspaper Izvestia, which said that "everyone knows the U.S.A. can rely on a mechanical majority in the Security Council."

The commentary broadcast by Moscow radio also accused this country of trying to prevent the five-power conference Khrushchev proposed. But it did not rule out Soviet acceptance of the Western proposal.

In advance of that, U.S. officials said they expected Khrushchev to accept, but to attach conditions which the United States and its allies may find unacceptable.

The Izvestia commentary mentioned one that they had anticipated — the possible participation in such a meeting of President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China. The Soviet Union is a strong supporter of Communist China.

The separate notes they sent Khrushchev Tuesday night showed that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and French Premier Charles de Gaulle themselves were badly divided on the issue of a meeting.

Eisenhower is reluctant to become involved in any kind of session with Khrushchev at this time. His letter strongly indicated, by several toughly worded paragraphs, that he considers the Soviet Communist leader to be behind much of the turmoil and trouble in the Middle East.

But under pressure from Macmillan, Eisenhower told Khrushchev that if a Security Council meeting involving presidents and premiers and foreign ministers "were generally desired, the United States would join in following that orderly procedure."

Administration officials said there was no doubt that if other government chiefs all agreed that they wanted a summit session in the Security Council, the President personally would attend.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mayor David Lawrence, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, says he will base his personal platform on what he claims has been accomplished in Pittsburgh's renaissance—a multi-million dollar re-development program.

Lawrence addressed more than 1,500 persons Tuesday night at the Kane-Stewart boosters picnic in South Park here.

The affair, regarded as the kickoff of the Lawrence campaign in Allegheny County, was interrupted by rain.

John J. Kane and Howard Stewart, the two Allegheny County Democratic commissioners, head the "Kane-Stewart Boosters Club."

Lawrence said that the county commissioners "realized that government, management and labor, working together in their great areas of common interest, could accomplish far more than they could as three separate and conflicting elements."

He added: "The Democrats will certainly discuss full employment in this campaign. We will be concerned with the serious matters of our life together in this state—job opportunities, old age and unemployment payments, public education, the state park system, our highway program, marketing the farmers' crops and promoting the sale of Pennsylvania products, water resources, flood control, industrial development and mental health."

Pittsburgh Dist. Revenue Service Collections Up

District Director of Internal Revenue, John H. Bingle, has released figures reflecting activities of the Pittsburgh District of the Internal Revenue Service for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1958. The Pittsburgh District covers 24 counties in Western Pennsylvania. Total collections for the year amounted to $2,426,397,599, an increase of $28,728,312, over the preceding year. This total includes:

Withholding Tax $1,136,422,503.

Individual Income Tax (other than withholding) $275,961,413.

Corporation Income and Excess Profits, $637,889,537.

Excise Tax, $315,999,346.

Estate and G. ft., $39,598,157.

All other, $20,526,543.

Tax returns of all kinds were received during the year totaled $2,159,886. The Audit Division of the office conducted 116,913 tax audits resulting in additional assessments of $32,656,485. The Collection Division reduced the total amount of the delinquent accounts outstanding by $4,053,735. The Intelligence Division, which is concerned with fraud, recommended prosecution in 51 cases during the year. In 28 such cases, the United States Attorney's Office obtained convictions resulting in fines, or imprisonment, or both. Only 3 defendants were acquitted after trial but 3 others were dismissed. Other cases are still pending.

Mr. Bingle called attention to the contrast between the total collections by the Pittsburgh office and its cost of operation. The total cost of operating, including the headquarters and 21 branch offices, was $5,224,000, which is less than 22 cents per $100 collected.

The United States has 969 accredited colleges and universities.

Official Suggests the State Save Money by Paying for Information From Criminals

By BOB HOLTON
HARRISBURG (AP) — Victor H. Wright will argue with anybody who holds to the adage that there is honor among thieves. He claims any criminal will turn against a fellow lawbreaker if the price is right.

And Wright should know his subject pretty well because he has spent a good many of his 40-odd years in tracking down criminals throughout Pennsylvania.

Wright, a deputy attorney general and one of the department's most busy investigators, says "money is one of the best weapons a law enforcer can have."

"Don't believe that bunk about there being honor among thieves," he instructed. "If you pass enough green stuff across the palm, any criminal will sell out on his fellow lawbreaker."

Reasoning along these lines, Wright envisioned for a newsman a statewide crime intelligence agency which would have a force of investigators to seek out criminals by any means and turn the information over to the proper authorities.

"Suppose the Legislature did set up some sort of crime commission to act as an information clearing house on criminal activity in Pennsylvania," he said, adding:

"A million dollars a year to operate that force would be cheap by comparison with the millions lost annually in the state due to crime."

"Such a force would have to employ investigators who could have in their possession money which could be spent without too much restriction," he explained.

By way of example, Wright pointed out this hypothetical case: "We want to get a line on a big dice game being operated in some city. We send an investigator out with plenty of money to grease the right palms to get a line on the game and then enough money to sit in on the game to get first-hand evidence."

"Let's face it," Wright said, "detectives and police investigators most times can't get leads to solve crimes by just walking around like they seem to do in the movies," he said.

"The hard fact is that many times you have to have financial deals with criminals in order to get information leading to arrest of other lawbreakers," he added.

Boyle's Comment

By KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP) — Walk into any big Japanese department store and you'll hear the same refrain—in Japanese, of course—with almost monotonous repetition. "Thank you for so frequently honoring our store with your presence."

The translation may be somewhat literal, but it is symptomatic of a politeness campaign that makes the Western rule of the customer always being right elementary by comparison.

At one of Japan's best-known stores — Mitsukoshi — customer service extends beyond working hours.

The management has informed its staff, "If, while riding public transportation, you see a person carrying a wrapped package bearing the marking of the store, give that person your seat, or offer to carry the package that person is carrying."

And if an employee is clumsy enough to have his or her foot stepped on by an unheeding customer, it is the employee who must apologize for being so careless.

Other rules provide that:

An employee must never walk between a customer and the goods that customer may be looking at.

An employee must never overtake a customer walking through the store. The employee must take another route.

Another major store tells new salesmen and sales girls that a customer never window shops. He is making a preliminary inspection.

In Japan it is entirely permissible, and expected, for customers to roam through stores and examine merchandise for as long as they please — and leave without making a single purchase.

And even the most frustrating customer gets the same refrain: "Thank you for so frequently honoring our store with your presence."

It comes from the elevator operator, the escalator attendant and precedes all announcements on the store's public address system.

Stores take the politeness drive in earnest for they know it affects sales. One personnel manager reportedly told a group of recruits: "We'll have to first make ladies and gentlemen out of you before you are of any use."

Starting salaries for high school graduates is around $22 a month for college grads about $30.

Expectant Dad, Under Fire, Moves Desk and Wife To Safety in War-Torn Beirut

By RELMAN MORIN
BEIRUT (AP)—"We're sick and tired of the whole thing. The people don't care what kind of a solution develops so long as they get this over with."

Camille Birbari, 36-year-old purchasing agent for a Lebanese firm, was talking. His office is in the center of Beirut—one of the hottest spots in the 73-day-old rebellion against Lebanon's pro-Western government.

Frequently, Birbari has telephoned his pretty wife Aida, mother of one child and with another on the way, that he had to work late.

Actually his office building was under heavy rebel fire. One employee was killed and another wounded. Birbari moved his desk away from the window and felt reasonably safe. But he couldn't tell his wife the real reason for his working late — "She was already nervous and I wouldn't give her any more bad news."

Aida's time drew near. Because of rebel sandbag barriers in sections of the city and the government's 8 p.m. curfew, the husband became apprehensive about the trip to the hospital.

"We had curfew passes, of course, not knowing when Aida might have to go to the hospital. Then they canceled the old passes and told everybody in the city they would have to get new ones. There was nothing we could do but hope for the best. My wife was nervous but very brave."

Ten days ago Birbari took his wife to the hospital — at 7 p.m., an hour before the streets were cleared and before the nightly shootings and bombings began. The baby arrived that night.

Birbari said the arrival of the U.S. Marines caused celebrations among the government supporters and badly scared the opposition. But the great majority of the people now just want peace, he declared, adding: "We are sick and tired of it. We're against anything that disturbs the stability of the country."

SUGAR GROVE

SUGAR GROVE — Loyalty Class of the Free Methodist church was entertained by Mrs. Roy Allenson. The program opened with singing; Mrs. Harold Mack read the 91st Psalm; Ruth Landin offered prayer. Reports were given on improvements to the church and it was stated this class has purchased paint for the church building.

Mrs. Robert Williams had arranged the program, which included readings by Mrs. Carl Allenson, Mrs. Mack, Miss Landin, Mrs. Lewis Peterson, Mrs. Lloyd Brown and Mrs. Theodore Allenson; a group of quizzes conducted by Mrs. Williams. To conclude, the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. Robert Chase, a recent bride, was honored at a bridal shower given at the home of Onalee Frank, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Frank. The evening was spent with games and contests with prizes going to the guest of honor and to Dawn Nobbs. Mrs. Chase was presented many nice gifts and refreshments were served. The 20 guests, classmates of the honored one, were from Akeley, Lander, Corry, Chandlers Valley and Sugar Grove.

Some Facts About Losses by Flood And Income Cuts

Victims of the recent floods, such as reported in Sharon, who lost houses, automobiles and other personal or business property may deduct those losses for Federal income tax purposes, John H. Bingle, District Director of Internal Revenue, said today.

Mr. Bingle said the rules for computing deductible losses from hurricanes, cyclones, forest fires, and other disasters are set forth in a helpful booklet, "How the Federal Income Tax Applies to losses from Hurricanes, Floods and Other Disasters."

He said the booklet contains sections covering such subjects as: "What Is A Casualty," "When Loss Is Deductible," "Proof of Loss," "Disaster Relief," and "How To Deduct the Loss."

Mr. Bingle said taxpayers who have suffered damage to grounds, automobiles, dwellings, boats, furniture and other property may obtain the booklet by requesting Publication No. 155 from his office at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Taxpayers also may get answers from the local offices of the Internal Revenue Service throughout Western Pennsylvania to any special disaster loss problems they may have experienced, he said.

Predators Seem Like Sin: Each Has Pet Dislikes

By DION HENDERSON

Associated Press Staff Writer Wildlife predators are something like sin. A great many people are against them in general but fail to agree on which ones they're against specifically.

In the case of bird and animal malefactors, the disagreement extends to the point where if you name something, somebody's against it.

Take cottontail rabbits, for instance. Admittedly, the householder who finds all his prize tulips chewed off at ground level in the spring may have certain thoughts that would contribute little to his local rabbits' peace of mind.

But little Mr. Hotfoot is, after all, America's No. 1 game animal, in point of numbers, and probably has been since grandpa was a boy.

Yet when the North Dakota Game and Fish Department, trying to work its way out of a bounty system that took $68,000 from more useful projects last year, queried some 2,500 farmers, 3 per cent wanted bounties paid for those cursed cottontails.

As a matter of fact, the biologists listed nearly a score of species on their list, and somebody wanted bounties paid for slaying of each one. Not only that, but some of the folks added their own nominees. Samples: Blackbirds, meadow mice.

The survey didn't turn up anything much resembling unanimity of opinion on bounties. The fox achieved a majority vote, with 57 per cent favoring a price on Reynard's head. But on coyotes, the percentage dropped to 33. Badgers drew more praise than censure, with 24 per cent voting for bounties and 26 per cent against.

on the church lawn, with a 1:00 p. m. dinner for which Caroline Beyer, granddaughter of Mrs. J. F. Lore, offered the table prayer. Mrs. Lore presented devotions. There were 12 persons present and the annual birthday offering was received.

Mrs. John Stuart entertained Family Birthday Club members to honor Mrs. Arthur Doux, Palmers Corners. Games were played and Mrs. Loux was remembered with gifts from 12 members present from Maple Springs, Ellery, Jamestown, Watts Flats, Wellman road and Sugar Grove. Mrs. Laurence Johnson, Maple Springs, will be hostess for the August gathering.

CARE OF THE MENTALLY ILL

An Editorial From the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

All too often it takes a tragic event—such as the murder of an inmate at Woodville State Hospital—to point up a social evil. In this case, it is the public's failure to provide adequately for the care of the mentally ill.

The patient who was killed, and the man who killed him, were two of some 100 inmates of a "disturbed" ward (meaning one in which the danger was greatest). This ward was staffed only by a nurse, whose duties were mostly administrative, and four attendants. At night, there were only two attendants.

But the American Psychiatric Association recommends one attendant to every six to eight patients in disturbed wards. Why were there so few attendants in the ward at Woodville?

The answer is the one that always pops up when a governmental agency is caught in a deficiency—lack of money.

Attendants for mental hospitals are hard to find because the work is unattractive and the pay is poor. The rapid growth in the number of mental cases, and of hospitals to provide for them, has produced a competitive situation in which there simply isn't enough competent personnel to go around. This applies to doctors and nurses no less than to attendants.

We are afraid this problem can't be licked until the public is willing to pay more for the care of the mentally ill. It must be made to realize the importance not only of providing adequate custodial care for these unfortunate members of our society but the even greater importance of treatment which can restore many of these people to useful lives.

Good news for Post Office patrons is the announcement that the Department has postponed enforcement of the recently-established 5 cents short-paid charge for forwarding mail with insufficient postage for the period August first to October 31st, when the rule will be reinstated.

Spurred by the leadership of JC's President Bill Clinger it is encouraging to observe the tentative time-table of deadline dates for completion of the various phases for a community swimming pool that has been worked out by the Warren Area Community Swimming Pool Committee.

Seven more days to get the old jalopy inspected!

Marlow Looks At TODAY'S NEWS

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
 WASHINGTON (AP)—For sheer confusion, the present mixup on a summit meeting is in a class by itself. One thing is sure: Nikita Khrushchev split the Western Allies' thinking on what to do.

He made this suggestion July 19. Since then, the Western Allies have talked it over. It gradually became clear Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles didn't want to buy Khrushchev's idea.

But the British did. This put pressure on Eisenhower to go along to some degree with the British. Tuesday things began to pop.

Macmillan messaged the Khrushchev government that the heads of the big powers should hold a summit meeting in the Security Council. Said Macmillan: "I would certainly be willing to attend such a meeting if you would also go."

Then the White House put out Eisenhower's message to Khrushchev. He said Khrushchev, if he had any complaint about American conduct in the Middle East, could go to the Security Council himself.

Eisenhower said this country would take part if such a meeting "were generally desired." What "generally desired" means was not made clear.

(Under U.N. rules the heads of state can sit in the Security Council in place of their regular delegates. That's why such a Council meeting could be a summit meeting.)

But France's Premier Charles de Gaulle was seeing things otherwise. He messaged Khrushchev that the U.N. presently lacks the calm and serene atmosphere France desires for a summit conference. He called for the big powers to name another place and time for such a conference.

This put it up to Khrushchev to speak his piece. He'll probably cause some more confusion, for the Soviets have complicated the very Middle East problem which Khrushchev protests he wants to solve.

Khrushchev expressed fear of war, called the American and British action interference in the Middle East, and proposed a summit meeting to discuss the Middle East. He wasn't talking of world problems in general now.

The kind of summit meeting he had in mind would be made up

"Are You Really SURE You Know This Game?"

Here and There

The growing popularity of boating on the Allegheny river between the two bridges has aroused many expressions of apprehension over the possibility of accidents, since spectators have observed that occupants in few of the boats equipped with outboard motors seem to be wearing life preservers. In connection with the sport a news release from the Metropolitan Information Service says that programs to promote the safety of persons who go out in boats have achieved a considerable measure of success in recent years, but water transportation accidents still take approximately 1,500 lives each year in the United States.

A study of the factors involved in deaths from boating accidents among industrial policyholders of the Insurance Company indicates where additional emphasis on safety is needed in view of the increasing popularity of boating. Drownings in small boat mishaps account for 1,200 lives, or for 4 out of 5 of all the lives lost in water transportation accidents in the United States. The others result mainly from falls, explosions, fires, asphyxiation by gas, machinery mishaps, and crushing by falling objects. The majority of fatalities sustained in small mishaps involve motor-driven boats. With few exceptions, the remaining fatalities involved rowboats, canoes, and rafts. The insurance records also show that nearly three-fifths of the deaths occurred among people who were out fishing. This high proportion underscores the need for greater caution among fishermen. Other facts brought out by the Metropolitan statisticians are: Many lives are lost in small boat accidents because of such dangerous practices as shifting positions, overloading, speeding, and sharp turning. An appreciable number of victims are non-swimmers, indicating that those who use small boats should learn to swim or, at least, have adequate life-saving equipment aboard. More than 9 out of 10 victims in water transportation accidents are males, the death toll reaching a peak at ages 20-24. The preponderance among males results both from their greater participation in recreational activities involving boats, and from their greater willingness to risk their lives. "Increasing attention has been focused on boating safety in recent years as the use of watercraft has gained widely in popularity," the statisticians conclude. "Valuable contributions to the safety program have been made by the Coast Guard, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, National Safety Council, United States Power Squadrons, and other boating organizations. But, as was pointed out at the National Small Boat Safety Conference held in Washington, D. C., last December, there is great need for an intensified educational program. To this end the United States Coast Guard, through its affiliate the Coast Guard Auxiliary, sponsors National Safe Boating Week, which this year will be observed June 29 through July 6."

It's the Oil Reserves That Make Mideast Vital

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—U.S. Marines have gone into Lebanon to give token protection to American-owned properties in the Middle East representing direct investment by private companies of one billion dollars, book value. This is original investment, less depreciation, plus improvements. It is probably a low figure.

Practically all of this investment is in oil. It accounts for employment of most of the 20,000 American citizens now in the Middle East from Egypt to Afghanistan.

Earnings on these private investments were reported at half a billion dollars in 1956. Figures for 1957, now being assembled, will be released in August.

BREAKDOWNS ON INVESTMENTS and earnings in the separate Middle East countries are not available. American oil company concessions in the Middle East are known, however, and from these holdings it can be shown where the big United States interests lie.

In the immediate trouble zone, the largest holdings belong to Iraq Petroleum Co. It is jointly owned by British, French, Dutch and U.S. interests. The American 23.75 per cent is jointly held by Socony-Vacuum and Jersey Standard.

Iraq Petroleum Co. holds three concessions covering most of Iraq and nine other exploration permits in Cyprus, Jordan, Lebanon, Palestine, Syria, Hadramaut and Oman in Southern Arabia, Trucial Oman and Qatar. Most of these concessions run to the year 2000.

Iraq Petroleum likewise owns and operates two pipelines from eastern Iraq across Syria and Jordan to the eastern Mediterranean terminals in Haifa, Israel and Tripoli, Lebanon. These pipelines were sabotaged during the Suez Canal crisis, but are again in operation.

THERE ARE TWO wholly American-owned concessions in the Middle East. One is Arabian American Oil's concession in Saudi Arabia, which runs to 1999. It is owned 30 per cent by Jersey Standard, California Standard and Texas company, 10 per cent by Socony-Vacuum.

The other is the valuable Bahrain Island concession in the Persian Gulf, also running to 1999. It is jointly held by California Standard and Texas company.

The rich Kuwait concession cut out of southeastern Iraq is held 50 per cent by Anglo-Iranian and 50 per cent by the U.S. Gulf Oil Co.

Kuwait, with a population of 200,000, has an income of over 300 million dollars a year. It has built a university, but it will be six years before anyone in the country will know enough to get in.

IRAN'S PRODUCTION, since the 1954 settlement worked out by Herbert Hoover Jr., is held under a 35-year concession, renewable for three five-year terms. It is held 40 per cent by five American companies, Texas, Gulf, Socony-Vacuum, California and Jersey Standard. British companies hold another 40 per cent, Dutch 14, French six.

Middle East oil production in 1957 was 1.2 million barrels, or 23 per cent of the world's total. Daily production was 725,000 barrels a day in Iran, 440,000 in Iraq, 990,000 in Saudi Arabia, 1,110,000 in Kuwait and 234,000 in other Middle East countries for a total of nearly 3.5 million barrels a day.

This is about half the size of U.S. production. But Middle East oil reserves are 71 per cent of the world's total. This is what makes the Middle East holdings of such value to the western world.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP)—No one could be more pleased than Uncle Sam that some corporations here and there are reporting their profits are a bit healthier now than earlier in the year.

And if more companies call back laid off workers and resume withholding part of their paychecks for tax purposes, he won't complain a bit.

The profit squeeze on American business is showing up quite clearly at the U. S. Treasury. Tax collections aren't what they should be.

The Middle East upheaval with all its uncertainty isn't helping a bit as far as any hopes of cutting back on government expenditures go. Whether it will help government collections by giving some industries more sales, either government or civilian, and more profits is to be seen.

Declining profits to tax and slimmer withholding tax collections have left the Treasury today with a much bigger deficit than first expected. The prospects are for even bigger deficits ahead.

Uncle Sam's financial embarrassment has been duly noted in both the stock and bond markets. Stock traders reason that growing Treasury deficits may lead to more inflation and this in large measure has offset their awareness that shrinking profit margins have trimmed some dividend rates, eliminated others, and threatened still more. Bond traders reason that repeated trips of the Treasury to the money market to float new issues will increase the over-all supply and weaken interest rates. Further stocks look like better investment than bonds.

What the combination of the industrial recession and the launch of the Sputniks has done to the Treasury is shown in its latest report on the fiscal year ended three weeks ago.

In January, before the recession picked up speed, the Treasury hoped to collect 72½ billion dollars. It missed its guess by more than 3 billion. It expected to spend 72½ billion and actually trimmed that a little, but not enough and ended in the red by more than 2½ billion.

But defense spending is rising now and the deficit for the current fiscal year may be 10 to 12 billion dollars.

There is little hope that increasing business profits and personal incomes will be able to make much of a dent in that.

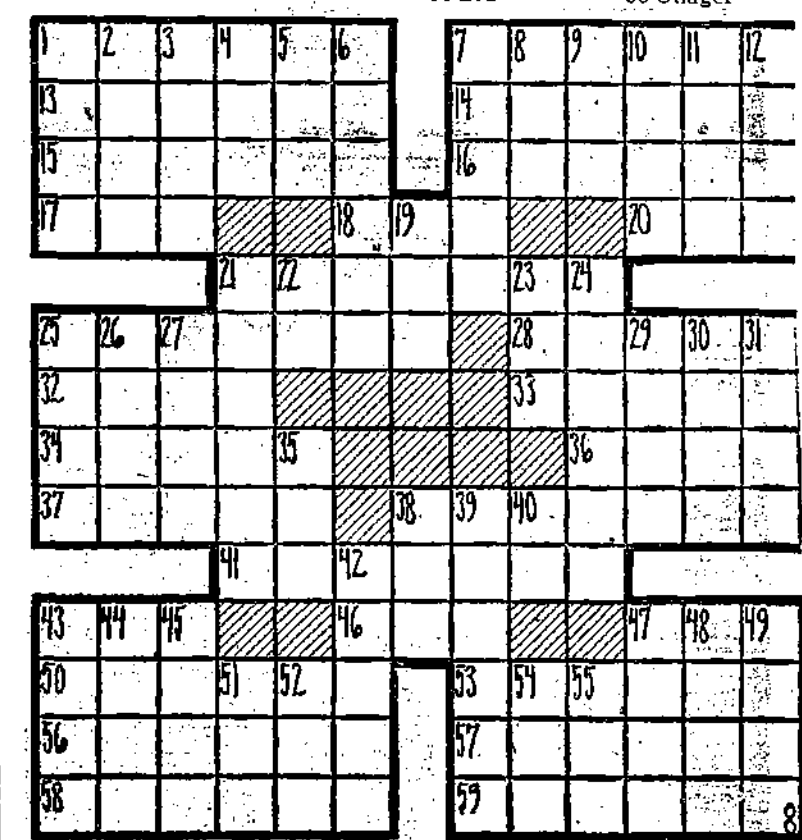

On the business side, the hoped-for pickup in activity after Labor Day will run into one of business' biggest problems—the steadily rising pressure of operating costs.

Unless companies can lick that, the squeeze on profits will continue. And the resulting sorrow will be shared about equally by the stockholders and the U. S. Treasury.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD J. SCHRAVEN

At 10.00 a. m. June 7 in St. Margaret's church in Buffalo, N. Y., Father Anthony Blot celebrated a high mass and performed a double ring ceremony to unite in marriage Mary Elizabeth Cardamone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cardamone of 408 Haz-el street, Warren, and Gerald Jack Schraven, son of Mr. and

Mrs. Jacob Schraven of Buffalo. Mrs. Catherine Ailinger sang "On This Day" and "Ave Maria." Carrying white stephanotis centered with a white orchid, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her floor length gown had short sleeves and a lace bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline trimmed

Full-Time Job Brings Full-Time Living to This Wife

"Is it taboo for a wife to say she LIKES to work?" asks a reader of this column.

She goes on to explain: "The six years I have held down a full-time job have been the happiest and most rewarding years of my life."

"When our three children were small, I stayed at home. I put patches on top of patches. There were no luxuries. The children weren't clothed well enough to attend Sunday School. And there was no money for a new hat or white gloves for me. So I couldn't go anywhere where women wear their best."

"I was glad to baby-sit for neighbors so I would have a dollar to spend as I wished. In order to live on one salary and keep out of debt we had to watch every nickel. And don't tell me it was good for us!"

"So later I found myself a pleasant job with congenial co-workers. I know all of the 140 employees and my husband and daughters know a lot of them. We visit, we picnic together as families, we share our troubles, we talk about our kids."

"My job enabled us to make a down payment on a big old house we love. We have been able to buy a TV set the whole family enjoys. We have a car. Our girls are able to belong to a social club. And the expenses connected with high school do not give me a cold feeling in the pit of my stomach."

"My husband and I both get home at five o'clock. The girls take turns setting the table for dinner and getting dinner started. Each girl has her own room and another room in the house to keep clean."

"Working all day and seeing people makes me quite content to stay at home in the evenings, so there is no 'wandering parents' problem in our home. At night we are right there with our daughters."

"So much is being written against working wives I just had to say that our is one family that has gained a great deal and lost nothing through this wife's taking on a full-time job."

Any other working wife who feels she can make that statement, please write in and be counted. It may be there are more such "success" stories than is commonly supposed.

with tiny pearls. An apron-effect of matching lace accented the hooped skirt of net over nylon, and elbow length gauntlets were topped with the same lace. A scalloped cap of lace, also pearl-trimmed, held her fingertip veil.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Josephine Erickson of Warren, wearing waltz length white nylon, with embroidered flowers in shrimp color. This shade was repeated in a crownlike headpiece and veil, and in her coronal bouquet of carnations. Carrying a like bouquet and wearing white nylon with pale green flowers, the bridesmaid was Mrs. Helen Britton, Hamburg, N. Y.

Robert Schraven was best man for his brother, ushers were another brother, Raymond and Alan Garretson, all of Buffalo.

The wedding dinner followed at the Parkridge, and an afternoon and evening lawn reception was held at the Schraven home.

After a wedding trip to New York City, the newlyweds are at home at 172 North Park avenue, Buffalo.

Mrs. Schraven, graduate of Warren High School and Bryant Stratton Business School in Buffalo, is employed as secretary by the M. J. Grass Company in that city. Mr. Schraven, alumnus of Bennett High School and University of Buffalo School of Engineering, is employed by Malt & Ness, consulting engineers in Buffalo.

A VITAL, INCREASINGLY COMPLEX PROFESSION—

Nurses Ask Funds to Help Improve Techniques

BY ALICIA HART

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Next time you awaken from a hospital anesthetic, you're liable to find just half a nurse taking care of you.

Also, don't be surprised if you see one nurse taking two pulses at once and another typing medical records at the same time she fills a hypodermic syringe.

For nurses are so enthusiastic about increasing their efficiency that they're asking Congress for help in financing a special nursing research program.

The unique project, which is being conducted in several of the nation's hospitals and universities, is aimed at finding ways to improve the whole gamut of nursing activities ranging from keeping important records to applying delicate, life-saving medical techniques.

Officials of the American Nursing Association explain that sweeping advances in medical science plus changes in hospital administration have turned nursing into a highly complex job.

The annual array of new medical discoveries always results in additional, often complicated nursing techniques. It also forces nurses to do jobs formerly performed by doctors who must continually take on new responsibilities.

ANA President Agnes Ohlson declares: "I don't think there's any area that's more complex than the hospital activity of today. You have to run awfully fast to even stay where you are."

The swift changes taking place in the modern hospital are largely responsible for another problem which nurses believe is important enough to merit congressional aid.

That's the shortage of nurses with specialized training to qual-number of patients has surpassed the number of registered nurses available to care for them.

This has caused hospitals to rely on practical nurses and nurses' aids. But specially trained registered nurses are needed to supervise their activities. Many of the women who would like this type of work can't afford the additional education which it requires.

ANA officials believe that financing the education of nurses who want to become teachers is especially vital to the country's health. They explain that many additional teachers are desperately needed to train the increased number of nurses required to meet future demands.

It's estimated that today there are 258 nurses per 100,000 people. But by 1960 ANA officials estimate at least 300 for every 100,000 people will be needed.

ANA officials believe practical and public health nursing activities also deserve federal financial support. They're asking Congress for funds to increase practical nurse training and to help finance traineeships for staff positions in public health nursing field.

They also want Congress to change the Taft-Hartley Labor Law to require nonprofit hospitals to bargain with them. As things stand now, officials of these hospitals don't have to bargain with the nurses. Since the nurses have agreed never to strike, they believe a hospital's refusal to bargain is a raw deal.

Learning of the scouting movement when a London boy led him through a fog and refused payment for his "good deed," William Dickinson Boyce brought the Scouting movement to America after a subsequent talk with Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the British Scouts.

Marilyn Yvonne Peterson Is Bride Of James W. Rapp in Busti Church

LANDER—At 2:00 p. m. July 5 in Busti, N. Y., Federated church, Marilyn Yvonne Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Peterson of Jamestown RD 4, became the bride of James William Rapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rapp, Russell RD 2.

The Rev. Chester Whitt performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 200 guests. Janet Siggins was at the organ and James Davis was soloist for wedding music.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore imported white embroidered swiss organdy over taffeta, the basque bodice having short sleeves and scoop neckline, the skirt bouffant and floor length. Embroidered gauntlets formed points over the hands, and a cap or organdy medallions, embroidered with sequins and seed pearls, held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her flowers were a white orchid and lilies of the valley, with streamers, centered on a white Bible.

Carrying pink roses, white mums and lilies of the valley in a colonial arrangement, the matron of honor was Mrs. John Peterson, wearing light pink organdy over taffeta and a pink picture hat; the bridesmaid, Lora Mae Anderson, in a deeper hue of pink.

"A friend of mine moved into a new house last month," says Mrs. Ben White of RD 2, Warren. "And one of the things she likes best is her new electric hot water heater!"

"Of course, I'm not surprised! After all, I know how much I appreciate ours! It's wonderful to forget completely about the hot water problem—and know that you'll always have enough. How did families like ours ever put up with those old-fashioned water heaters? We always had to wonder if we turned it off when we went away."

Adv.

John Peterson served Mr. Rapp as best man; ushers were Clifford Rapp and Donald Anderson, brothers of the principals.

Reception arrangements in the church parlors included a four-tier cake and a center piece of pink roses and white mums. Mr. and Mrs. Duane Peterson were master and mistress of ceremonies; aides were Mrs. David Strickland, Mrs. Galen Rapp, Mrs. Belmer Hitchcock, Mrs. Rex Wilson, Mrs. John Siggins, Linda Benson and Mrs. Daniel Runge.

Following a wedding trip through northeastern New York state, the bride will remain with her parents until she can join her husband, who will be stationed with the Army at Fort Niagara.

The bride is a 1954 graduate of Southwestern Central High School and honorary member of Phi Delta Tau Sorority; a graduate of WCA Nursing School, and is employed on the hospital staff. Mr. Rapp was graduated from Sugar Grove-Farmington High School in 1953.

Hostesses who honored the bride-elect were Mrs. Ralph Swanson, Caribell Swanson, Mrs. Herbert Kooman, Lora Mae Anderson, Mrs. Lillian Peterson, Mrs. Merle Crandall, Mrs. Arthur Hansen, Joan Hansen, hospital associates, Mrs. Galen Rapp, Mrs. Belmer Hitchcock, and Mrs. Clifford Rapp. The rehearsal party was given by the bridegroom's parents.

PERSONAL

Dear Mary,

Thanks for inviting me to your sewing machine demonstration party last night. I never realized a sewing machine could do such wonderful things and for that price! Several of us girls are going to use our $5.00 party coupon and get our sewing machine right away. Sally was sure lucky to win that apron door prize. I think I will phone Mrs. Wayne Miller, the Montgomery Ward demonstrator, Warren 2900, and book a party of my own. I will try to have to have 8 or 10 interested guests to make it worth the $10.00 merchandise certificate they give the hostess. See you soon.

Russell WSCS Plans To Honor Its Pastor

Mrs. Andrew Lindell, local church activities secretary, took over the meeting; plans were made to clean the church, and there was discussion of plans for a reception for the Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Headland next Tuesday evening, July 29.

A program committee appointed will consist of Mrs. Ernest Peterson, Mrs. Harry Pearson and a member of the Thursday Evening Circle; refreshments, Mrs. Charles Swanson, Mrs. Benton Baird and Mrs. Ralph Way.

As One Business Executive Sees It Having a Happy Boss Is Secretary's Natural Goal

BY AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The boss may not be a big wheel at home but he's still king of the office castle. He's the king, that is, if he has a competent secretary—a work horse who is also a buffer in bouffant.

Getting a good boss is one thing and keeping him healthy and happy is another. This is the opinion of Howard S. Cohoon, a Mississippi manufacturer whose products go into millions of homes each year.

His interest in prolonging the lives of executives is twofold. First, he is a corporation president. Second, he instigated a Working Women's Forum to help women who work with their problems.

Through the forum, he quizzed secretaries about their employers and what it takes to keep an office running smoothly. From their replies he sifted out "Twenty Ways to Make the Boss Happy."

This smart secretary knows that keeping the boss happy and free from the strain of detail is an important part of her job.

To detour executive ulcers and keep blood pressures under control secretaries should:

1. Find out what things irritate him—then spare him these annoyances. They may be unwelcome callers, lengthy phone conversations or trouble with the air conditioner.
2. If he likes everything in its place, see that it's done.
3. In making appointments give him sufficient time to go from one place to another, always leaving a margin for delay. Bosses who run breathless from one date to another are candidates for heart attacks.
4. If he has pills to take, keep a schedule and make him follow it.
5. GET A LIST of family birthdays, anniversaries, etc., and remind him in time. This helps with his married happiness.
6. Some executives are quick-tempered and blow their tops easily. Lay low until the tantrum is over.
7. If the boss has to have his lunch sent in, see that he has a good substantial meal.
8. For trips, make accurate details of train, plane and hotel reservations and see he gets off in time.
9. Have him keep an extra pair of rubbers and umbrellas in the office.

10. If he has done something exceptionally well, don't withhold praise. A man likes to look good not only before his wife but his secretary, too.

These are just a few hints on taking care of things that plague employers.

ANOTHER BIG HELP, the forum suggests, is to hold back any news that is upsetting if he is in a bad mood. Wait for the right moment, if possible. In other words, don't kick a boss when he is down.

Also encourage him to relax. He'll feel less guilty with your approval. If he is a golf enthusiast, and the office is quiet, urge him to try a few putts.

An employer will have fewer temper tantrums if you don't watch the clock; do extra work required without grumbling; know the business and handle small details without pestering him.

The NSA reminds secretaries that this is a "work" relationship. So don't sit on the boss' lap at office parties.

Now that the boss is happy, Cohoon says his next investigation will be on what it takes to keep the secretaries that way.

"That is important, too," he admits. "In spite of recession talks, a good secretary is harder to find. And even harder to keep."

Gathered From The Party Line

Paul Mutzabaugh is back in town after a year's special school work and will soon be returning to his duties as principal at East street building. Teaching in the Army school at Bar-le-Duc, France, the Warren man also toured as much of Europe as time permitted. Speaking of the World Exposition in Brussels, he states, in his opinion, the controversial United States exhibit is well done and is making a good impression on all Europeans who visit it. Referring to his school work, he terms it "a tremendous experience" and feels he has come back to this country a better American.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Esther Carnes, 300 Pleasant drive, were Mr. and Mrs. George Carnes and family, Dansville, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gridley and children, Herb and Debbie, and Miss Beverly Carnes, student nurse, of Rochester.

Quick thinking on the part of a passing truck driver undoubtedly averted an accident in Times Square Tuesday afternoon, when a small boy, left alone in a parked automobile, opened the car door on the street side, climbed down and was standing in the traffic lane, undetermined which way to go. The truck driver stopped his machine, ran across the street to scoop up the youngster and place him in his own car, only inches ahead of a fast-moving vehicle.

James S. Miller, 19 Oak street, returned home yesterday from Erie, where he has been a surgical patient for the past five weeks.

Mrs. Ann Kushmerchuck, who has been visiting at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mitchell Huron of Warren RD 1, has returned to her home in Andover, N. J.

Intestine Becomes Part of Esophagus; Girl Eats Again

PANA, Ill. (AP) — For the first time in her young life, 5-year-old Karen Lee Goidon is getting her fill of home cooking.

Mashed potatoes, noodles, eggs, fruits, even a little meat — whatever Mom puts on the table, the pert, blonde child polishes off. Then she rubs her expanding belly, coos blissfully and proudly reports, "I'm full."

It's something new for the Gordon household. Gone is the hated tube through which the little girl had to be fed since she was 3 days old.

Because Karen was born without an esophagus, doctors had to insert the tube through a hole in her abdomen. Eating

Sylvania Develops Stainless Steel Clad Copper Wire

Copper wire clad with a chrome-iron alloy has been developed by Sylvania Electric Products Inc. as an electrical conductor for equipment which must operate under high temperature, corrosive, and oxidizing conditions.

Known as "Oxalloy 28," the new wire is ideal for applications such as leads to heating elements in electrical resistance furnaces, electrical appliances, and vacuum tubes, and as hook-up wire in electrical equipment, according to P. M. Pritchard, general sales manager of Sylvania's Parts Division.

"Oxalloy 28" is produced, Mr. Pritchard explained, by inserting an oxygen-free, high conductivity copper rod into the chrome-iron alloy tube. Subsequent cold drawing and annealing of this assembly provide an actual physical bond between the cladding and the core material.

"The introduction of 'Oxalloy 28' extends the operating range of Sylvania's high temperature conductors to 1300 degrees F," Mr. Pritchard stated. "This operating level has long been needed in the electrical and electronics industries where reliable high temperature electrical conductors are required," he added.

"Oxalloy 28" is available in round wire sizes 0.005 inch to 0.250 inch diameter, and in tempers ranging from soft annealed to full hard, the Sylvania sales executive stated. Ribbon, rolled from round "Oxalloy 28" wire, is available in widths up to 0.125 inch. Both wire and ribbon can be furnished in a wide variety of spool and coil sizes to meet processing requirements.

Technical information on "Oxalloy 28" may be obtained from Sylvania Electric Products Inc., Warren, Pa.

SUCKER OVERCALL HELPS OPPONENTS

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In my articles over the years I have stressed the undesirability of the so-called sucker overcall.

Sometimes the sucker overcall puts the bidder's head on the chopping block; other times it warns the opponents away from an impossible game contract. Occasionally it shows declarer how to play the hand and once in a while it helps the opposition get to a difficult slam.

As Ivan Erdos, well-known coast expert and writer points out in a magazine article, this particular East had no reason to make a vulnerable two heart overcall. He did have 11 points and two aces, but his five card suit was quite weak and if South happened to have hearts East might have taken a big set.

South bid three diamonds and North raised him to four. Now South felt strong enough to show his heart void; North rebid his spades; South went to five clubs and this was enough for North. He jumped to the diamond slam.

Ivan gives full credit to North and South for exemplary bidding, but points out that the game was duplicate and only one other pair got to the lay down slam. Hence, he feels that East was most helpful and should be remembered favorably by his lucky opponents.

Mirror and Honesty Are Beauty Aids

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Understanding your own kind of beauty takes a real intelligence. It also takes the kind of resilient spirit which rebels against the idea of copying the looks of the current reigning movie queen.

Probably the best way to gain a notion of one's true looks is to remove all make-up and survey one's face in a good, strong light. Note your bone structure, hairline, skin (good or bad?) natural eyebrow arch and lipline.

This will tell you most of what you need to know if you are honest and impartial. It will also tell you that something must be done about concealing a poor hairline (with a new hairdo), using a touch of rouge high up on the cheekbones and near the temples for a lovely glow or resorting to revamp your diet in order to improve a poor complexion.

The truth is that something can be done about almost any beauty problem if we are willing to face the fact that the problem is ours.

The sun, sea and surf provide the very best means to free health and beauty available. Years ago, when Victorian doctors sent their patients to take sea air, it was because they knew how beneficial it was. It's relaxing, soothing, good for the eyes and the inner spirit, too. And while you're doing yourself general good, you're also acquiring a healthy tan.

A word about this, though: don't overdo. Move into the shade and don a beach jacket or sweater when the sun starts to bake. Use one of the new and excellent tanning creams which permit you to get a tan but seal out all burning rays.

Follow the instructions exactly and renew the cream whenever you should. And watch those super-sensitive spots: the nose, the shoulders, the backs of the legs.

How long have you used the same lipstick shade? Worn your hair the same way? Bought the same type of dress?

If the answer is more than a year, then it's time for a change. Habits take hold of us and refuse to let us go. But they don't make for a new and dazzling look that makes people take notice.

If you've a favorite hairdo, fine. Just have it restyled enough to conform to the new haircuts. Pick a brand new lipstick shade, buy some dresses of a type you've never worn. Then sit back and listen to the compliments.

FBI Charges The Wonder Boy With Heisting $62,500

By JOE BARDIS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The FBI today charged young Pittsburgh financier Earle Belle and his associate, Mitchell D. Ostwind, with fraudulently converting $62,500.

E. Hugo Winterrowd, special agent in charge of the Pittsburgh FBI office, said the money involved was in the form of five checks, each amounting to $12,500 and drawn on the Manufacturers Bank of Edgewater, N. J.

Belle and Ostwind now are in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

In a complaint filed before a U. S. Commissioner, Alexander McNaughton, the FBI said that Belle and Ostwind conspired together with other unknown persons to violate the U. S. Code.

Winterrowd said the U. S. Department of Justice will handle proceedings for the return of Belle and Ostwind to the United States.

In another complaint, the FBI charged that Belle transported from New York to Pittsburgh, Pa., a check for $40,000 drawn on the Chase National Bank in New York and payable to the Carl W. Schuttler Corp., which check was known by Belle to have been converted and taken by fraud.

The five checks involving the $62,500 charge were payable to the Steiner Mfg. Co., the Aero-Cal Industries, Century Controls, Troop Water Heater Co., and the Carl W. Schuttler Corp.

The FBI said the investigation developed about last April 28 after Belle, 26, deposited the five checks for $62,500 to the account of Cornucopia Gold Mines, Inc., at the Peoples First National Bank & Trust Co. in Pittsburgh.

The five checks, the FBI said, were transported from Edgewater, N. J., to Pittsburgh by Belle and Ostwind, both knowing these checks were converted and obtained by fraud.

The number of horses in the world declined from 114 million in 1928 to 76 million in 1950.

Sherman Adams Gets Secrecy in Pension Probing

By E. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House armed services subcommittee starts taking testimony behind closed doors today on the role of Sherman Adams in a $41,284 penalty refund to a New England textile firm.

The White House says Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, did no more than relay queries and information on the matter in a routine fashion. Former officials of the now defunct company, Raylaine Worsted, Inc., have denied any White House pressure was involved.

Subcommittee Chairman Edward Hebert said several days of closed-door testimony will be taken before any public hearings are called. The group spent yesterday studying the background without calling witnesses.

The new investigation follows lengthy hearings by another subcommittee of Adams' relations with Bernard Goldfine, a Boston textile manufacturer and real estate owner who denied Adams pulled strings in his behalf. Goldfine is not involved in the current inquiry.

The Raylaine company was penalized $49,784 for late delivery of uniform fabric shortly after Pearl Harbor in 1941. It appealed unsuccessfully to the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals for a $25,000 refund, but in 1957 succeeded in having the case re-opened and the penalty cut by $41,284.

Roswell M. Austin, a former member of the appeals board, told reporters an inquiry in behalf of Raylaine was made by Adams.

Mirrored in Our Times

Rain today and more tomorrow—gets just a bit on the monotonous side, doesn't it? Does anyone really believe that we've had our summer season? There's bound to be some good, warm weather ahead someplace—but where? It isn't going to seem too long before that school bell tolls again, either, just a bit over a month away and the boys and girls will be gone for the day (most of it, at least). It seems only yesterday that we spoke fleetingly of vacation days to come—you know—those "leisure hours"?!! Guess that's just the way the mop flops and we've flopped ours to clean up the mud tracked in several times of late.

For pure summer pleasure the kids around here have built several tents; a tree-house; have organized quite a few clubs (most of them quickly defunct); cooked out-of-doors and slept there too (if that's what you call them). There have been a couple of picnics—went to the beautiful Chapman Dam spot and couldn't get over how wonderful it has become and hope for an annual return to Wildcat Park soon. Very restful summer! Seems as though nary a day flies by that somebody isn't seeking something new to do—and appetites are never satisfied for more to clam into waiting tummies. In warm or hot weather most taste buds crave something sweet but refreshing. When you're hungry for something really special, it needs to have eye appeal, too—nothing soggy or melty; nothing heavy but light, cool and very, very delicious.

Have you and your family enjoyed the Fanny Farmer Summertime assortment of delicious sweets at The Warren Drug Store. Airy, delicate candies attractively packaged to appeal to the weariest summer appetite. Many folks have enjoyed these flavor-fresh sweets during the warm season—why don't you? You'll be back for more at The Warren Drug Store.

"Most television programs have failed to keep us entertained of late but the fairly new show "Keep Talking" has some moments of fun. Many top comedians appear as guests to prove their unfailing ability to wag the tongue.

RADIO and TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless something exceptional occurs during the next month or so, the two rarest sights on television will be the live dramatic show and the sponsored show.

At this moment, approximately one third of what is considered prime viewing time (from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m.) remains unsold by the three major networks, according to a two-night doubleheader tonight beginning at 6 p. m.

In Wheeling, a severe electrical storm temporarily cut off power to 250 homes and a manufacturing plant.

sponsor resistance to television" he says "is that most clients and their agencies continue to look for another Gunsmoke, another I Love Lucy, another $64,000 Question"

The problem, continues, the agency man, is that today programming generally has reached a point in quality where there are a lot of shows around, and all of them good.

"The whole thing has led to a leveling off. Clients are just not going to find any one outstanding show because almost all shows have reached a reasonably good level."

And of course, there is—or was—the recession.

"In the past, the way to build the medium was to cater to the advertising giants," he says "And the advertising giants run like rabbits at the first sign of trouble. Television should have made more provisions for the small advertiser. The agencies right now are looking for ways to have more than two sponsors for a half hour show."

What will this mean to you and to me? Probably fewer expensive talent shows, more movies, more inexpensive panel and audience participation shows—and more plugs for coming attractions instead of the regular commercials.

Committee to Vote on Union Accounting Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Labor Committee votes formally today on a bill to require public accounting of employee welfare and pension benefit plans.

It gave tentative approval Tuesday after adopting amendments providing criminal penalties for violators.

Rep. Ludwig Teller (D-NY), one of the measure's chief sponsors said the amendments "toughened up the bill considerably."

The measure would require administrators of employee welfare or pension benefit plans to make available to each beneficiary or participant a description of the plan and an annual financial report.

Failure to furnish them when requested would mean a fine of $50 a day for each day of not doing so.

A copy of all reports would be filed with the secretary of labor.

Writer Says

Administration officials said today there are several reasons why a summit meeting is highly inadvisable now.

1. Khrushchev is in the position of an accuser and the United States of defender in the dispute over the causes and the possible consequences of American and British military intervention in the Middle East. From the U.S. point of view, this is an upside-down situation, one that puts the country at a great disadvantage in trying to deal with the political and propaganda interests at stake in any highly publicized meeting.

2. There are in the U.S. government's view, two real villains in the Middle East strategy. They are Khrushchev and Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser. The State Department is convinced they intend to do everything possible right now and in the future to foment as much trouble as they can against pro-Western governments in the Middle East.

3. The risks involved in any summit conference are so great that no such meeting should ever be held without the most careful preparations that diplomacy can devise. These risks include dangers of misunderstanding, of an illusion of progress toward peace, of an exchange of debate which could inflame rather than calm the tempers of governments and peoples alike.

Belle and Ostwind

In another complaint filed before a U. S. commissioner, the FBI charged Belle with transporting a $40,000 check drawn on the Chase National Bank of New York to Salisbury, Pa., "which check was known by Belle to have been converted and taken by fraud."

The FBI charged that Belle and Ostwind conspired with other unknown persons to violate the U.S. Code.

The Manufacturers Bank was closed last Thursday by the New Jersey State Banking Commission after discovery of $150,000 in allegedly forged notes made out to the companies of Belle and Ostwind.

FARM SAFETY REMINDER

represented in our group including our leader.

These past few days have been very full days for us. We have had numerous meetings of our group. We meet at least twice daily, once in the morning and once in the afternoon. We have also been having numerous small gatherings in the evenings. In our meetings we have been given information that will help us get along better and what to expect in Yugoslavia. We have also been having language classes in which we study essential phrases in Serbo-Croatian, language of Yugoslavia.

Our meetings in our group have been supplemented by discussions ranging from juvenile delinquency to when to date the baker's daughter and also very interesting questions and answer periods about what to expect in our countries.

We have also had many dances, movies and the like to keep us busy all the time.

Last night our group met Dr. Watt, founder of the Experiment. We had a very interesting several hours with him. He is truly a great man dedicated to his work.

Soviet Paper

be crushed by the force of Arab nationalism, he said.

He said that in his secret meeting with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic last Thursday, "we talked about how to stop the hand of the imperialists, of what we could do to prevent war in the Middle East so that the new republic of Iraq could grow strong and independent, whatever course it may wish to take."

Nasser celebrated the sixth anniversary of the Egyptian revolution with a fiery speech asserting the U.S. and British forces in the Middle East will be defeated. To an estimated 250,000 cheering Egyptians, he predicted Arab nationalism—meaning under his dictatorship or at least influence—will triumph in Lebanon, Jordan, Algeria and in Jerusalem, which is divided between Jordan and Israel.

But an article in Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, which apparently was written before the Eisenhower-Macmillan proposals were known officially, threw ice water on the U.N. summit idea.

The official Soviet news agency Tass distributed a report of the Izvestia article saying that "the United States rulers are seeking a suitable way to avoid" Khrushchev's proposal.

"It is common knowledge that the United States wields a mechanical majority in the Security Council. Does the United States really think that someone will agree to discuss cardinal international problems with Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China, Kai-shek of Nanchang in the Security Council thanks to his American patrons?"

Western observers in Moscow said they believe Khrushchev might find it difficult to reject the U.N. summit idea in view of his original offer to go anywhere for a meeting.

The Security Council adjourned indefinitely Tuesday night after a second Soviet veto in four days blocked resolutions for American troop withdrawal from Lebanon.

The adjournment was taken to await the outcome of negotiations for a summit meeting, and the implementation of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's plan to reinforce the U.N. observer corps in Lebanon.

Public Invited to Flood Control Meeting Tonight

A learned opinion on the relative merits of a Conewango valley reservoir compared to Kinzua Dam as far as Warren flood control is concerned will be presented to all interested in a public meeting at 8 o'clock this evening in Warren Court House.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, distinguished hydrodynamic engineer who at one time headed TVA, will explain why he believes a reservoir along Conewango Valley in New York State would offer not only Warren, but also other points down the Allegheny River, much better flood protection than a dam at Kinzua.

Dr. Morgan, speaking from voluminous facts and figures before civic officials in Salamanca last night, left an obvious impression that his proposal for flood control along the Allegheny, Ohio and Mississippi rivers deserved serious consideration by U. S. Army engineers who have held steadfastly to the premise that a dam at Kinzua is the best answer.

With Morgan will be General Indian Attorney Ed. E. O'Neill who is leading the legal battle for an injunction to halt engineers' preliminary steps toward a Kinzua Dam.

That trial moves into Appellate Court early this fall, will be taken into Supreme Court by the losing side in the spring.

Richard Morrison, Save Our Valley Association Chairman, will preside at the meeting this evening.

Monkey Excites Users Of Massachusetts Pike

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—A motorist on the Massachusetts Turnpike reported a monkey leaped on the hood of his car while the car was traveling at 50 miles an hour.

State police admittedly were skeptical.

A short while later, however, another motorist reported seeing a monkey sunning himself on a guardpost and then doing a couple of back flips on the hood of a passing car.

Where the monkey came from was a mystery.

Wears Gown to Funeral Instead of to Wedding

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Nine-year-old Palma LaGrotteria talked often about how she was going to be a flower girl in the September wedding of a family friend.

And she was all excited about her gown for the wedding, a replica of the bride-to-be's white gown, overlaid with pink tulle. Why, she even helped her mother pick it out.

Palma will wear the gown, but not at the wedding. She'll be buried in it Friday.

She died Tuesday of leukemia, a form of cancer affecting the blood.

Nasser Urges

direct, could not possibly be lost on his hearers—Hussein is in line for his grandfather's fate.

"We call for peace and we make every effort to strengthen this peace," said Nasser. But there was no hint of compromise in his assertion that "the British armed aggression against Jordan will be defeated—the American armed aggression against Lebanon will be defeated."

Should Nasser call now for discussions on the Lebanese and other Middle East problems, the West might be justified in considering he is seeking only breathing space in which to prepare for his next assault.

There are already signs that the crisis is getting deeper.

Nabulus and other cities in the Palestine sector of Jordan are patently nervous. There are numerous check points on the road from Amman, and so far government security forces seem to have matters under control. But there are reports the pro-Nasser elements have arms cached, waiting for the signal for action.

Nixon Has Ideas About Winning the Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon launched a Republican "Operation Coffee Cup" campaign today by telling GOP workers to "get up early and stay up late" if they want to win this year's election.

Nixon was guest of honor at an early morning coffee party sponsored by the National Federation of Republican Women at the Capitol Hill Club. Secretary of Labor Mitchell and a score of congressmen also attended the affair, which is supposed to set the pattern for neighborhood coffee meetings throughout the country.

Nixon told the group the Republicans have a real fight on their hands but can win if they acquaint the voters with the candidates and the issues. An effective way to do that, he said, is to arrange for neighborhood coffee parties at which candidates can meet and chat with the voters.

Optimistic Forecast From Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly magazine, said today Pittsburgh steelmaking operations are due to move up slightly this week.

Scrap brokers said the increase in scrap prices is an indication the steel industry will boost output. They also attributed some of the rise to the turbulent Middle East situation.

Index of General Business In May Shows 2% Decrease

University Park — General business in leading areas of Pennsylvania fell 2 per cent from April to May to reach the lowest May level since 1955.

The Bureau of Business Research at the Pennsylvania State University reported today that the Index of General Business in May had dropped to 160 as compared to 164 in April and 183 a year ago. The index is based primarily on bank debits, factory payrolls, and industrial power sales and uses the years 1947-49 as 100.

The most encouraging note in the change from April to May was the drop in unemployment, the first recorded this year. While 509,000 were unemployed in April, the unemployment figure for May had fallen to 473,000, a decline of 7 per cent.

Building contracts from April to May gained 11 per cent instead of the less than 1 per cent expected but this was the only series to show a better-than-seasonal movement.

Several series moved in accordance with their seasonal patterns. Carloadings in the Allegheny district and street railway revenue traffic made small gains; factory hours, factory payrolls, and industrial power sales showed no change; and postal receipts declined slightly.

Series that were disappointing, seasonwise, included employment and life insurance sales which dropped slightly after adjustment, bituminous coal and bank debits which showed moderate losses, anthracite production which rose only 4 per cent instead of the expected 18, and building per-

Polio Foundation Expands Program To Allied Fields

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced today it is expanding its program to attack major health problems of the nation.

Until now, the foundation has been concerned with polio. Paralytic polio has been virtually licked by the Salk vaccine.

Basil O'Connor, foundation president, said research initially will be in five areas: polio, virus research, disorders of the nervous system, arthritis and birth defects.

The foundation's expansion into arthritis research indicates it may vie for funds with the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation. The latter last week rejected a proposed merger by the two groups.

O'Connor said no attempt will be made to duplicate the work of other voluntary agencies. He added, however, that as scientific breakthroughs occur they will be pursued wherever they lead, with the general objective of improvement of man's health.

The arthritis group voiced regret that the polio foundation had not "seen fit to join forces" in combating arthritis, but instead was entering the field on its own.

The polio organization will be known henceforth as the National Foundation, O'Connor said.

He said the enlarged program is a natural outgrowth of work done in the course of finding a polio preventive and caring for polio victims.

News of Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Many parents talk about getting a better education for their children. Robert Ryan and his wife Jessica did something about it.

They went to the extreme of starting their own school. The project has been a rousing success, attracting interest from educators in many parts of the country.

It all started about eight years ago when the youngest of their three children was ready to begin kindergarten. Mrs. Ryan scouted the public school situation in their North Hollywood neighborhood.

She reported to her husband that the situation wasn't good. The schools were packed with the wartime baby crop, and classes were on half-day sessions.

"What'll we do about it?" the actor asked.

"Let's start our own school," his wife said.

They held a meeting with other parents in the nursery school their son was attending. Only two families expressed interest. The number was swelled to 12 when the word got around. So the Ryans and friends cut through governmental red tape and opened the Oakwood School in an abandoned building.

The staff: two teachers for the first and second grades plus kindergarten. Gradually, the staff and grades were increased and a new building was erected on property purchased by the school.

Ryan found himself devoting almost full time to Oakwood, plus a big hunk of his earnings in films. He was about ready to abandon the whole thing when he heard of the availability of Marie Spotswood, a top-notch New York City grade school administrator. She said she would come out if she had complete freedom to run the school. She got it.

"Oakwood School has blossomed since then," Ryan said. "We now have 80 students, seven modern classrooms and a new playing field."

"It is not a celebrity school—I'm about the only actor connected with it. Nor is it a school for problem children. Unfortunately, that is what a lot of private schools attract. Parents don't start worrying about their children's education until Johnny can't read or starts beating up the teacher."
